The engine off my craftsman tiller,,5 hp briggs ,,ran pretty good so there should not be a problem. All I did was take the cam and cover off the other 5 hp briggs and exchanged them,,so I could pick up forward gear on this mtd tiller. They must have reversed the trans gear in the mtd. Or are all rear tine tillers like this???

I went to a local shop today to try to get the part and they kept saying that they needed to know what kind of motor it is - I told them that all I can find about the engine is that it is a TroyBilt/MTD engine. So is MTD making their own engines now or are they just doing a REALLY good job at hiding the actual manufacturer?
