When they isolated the main station port engine and put a different Tach in they could get the engine to COMM. Therefore it is their opinion, 3 Tachs are bad the starboard wiring harness is bad and the boat must have been hit by lightning! There is no other damage to my boat or any systems from this lighting stike.

I've been having a recurring problem with my Mercury SmartCraft system. When I start the engine after leaving the boat for about a week the words "lost engine com" appear and my guages fail to function. While I can still use the boat I usually have a nervous wait until it kicks in again after about 15 minutes or so and will then work OK.
